AGRICULTURE

GARNISH ISLAND The history of agriculture is the story of humankind's development and cultivation of processes for producing food, feed, fiber, fuel and other goods. For centuries, agriculture has shaped society and the cultural landscape in Europe and provided its people with quality food and raw materials allowing people to stay in one location generation after generation.

WINE GROWING Over the last 150 years, wine making has been totally revolutionised as an art and science. With access to refrigeration, it has become easy for wineries to control the temperature of the fermentation process and produce high quality wines in hot climates. The introduction of harvesting machines has allowed winemakers to increase the size of their vineyards and make them more efficient.

FRUIT-GROWING Many of the fruits have grown in the wild for thousands of years. When people began to eat them as food about 11,000 years ago people began to grow fruits, to farm the plants and to care for them. Farmers experimented and grew new kinds of fruits. Fruits found growing in one part of the world were taken by explorers and traders to many other parts of the world. It is believed that Christopher Columbus took pineapples from South America to Spain in the late 1400s. Fruits were then planted and grown in many countries around the world.

VEGETABLE FARMING

Agriculture is the foundation of all human civilization. The moment mankind was able to reliably grow its own food, it could halt its nomadic hunter-gatherer lifestyle. When we were no longer forced to chase migrating herds and pluck grubs to survive, we were able to develop culture, language, and music. Showcases more than 7 million tulips, daffodils, and hyacinths, but only for eight weeks from mid-March to mid-May. This is fascination event that should not be missed.

WHAT CAN WE DO FOR YOU:

Come and see how an agricultural business runs including dairy and cattle farming and much more | Take a break from museums and churches and discover the beauty of the Wachau Valley with its vineyards | Visit the South Tyrol Museum of Fruit Growing also referred to as "Apple Museum", providing information on the development of fruit-growing | Learn about the cultivation and processing of gherkins during a tour through a farm in the Spreewald

CULINARY

WHISKY No visit to Scotland would be complete without sampling 'the water of life' - the name given by the ancient Celts to the fiery amber nectar we now call Scotch whisky. The exact origins of when whisky was first produced in Scotland are lost in the midst of time. It is known however that the ancient Celts were been producers, and even more enthusiastic consumers. For centuries it has been claimed that whisky has mystical medicinal powers sufficient to cure colic, smallpox and many other common diseases. Others simply believed it to be an effective in-built central heating system to help survive those long cold Scottish winter nights.

CHEESE It is old, smelly, moldy and got holes – cheese - one of our staple food and especially common in the Western hemisphere such as America and Europe. Since milking cows, sheep and goats there is cheese. Because of its good storage life cheese has already been carried by Greeks, Teutons and Romans during their hunting and conquering expeditions. The latter started a prospering trading in cheese during the last years of the Roman Empire. In Medieval times cheese production was mainly in the hands of monasteries and experienced its boost towards the end of the Middle Ages with the increasing urban growth. Scientific and technological developments made cheese production easier and lead to today's mass production.

CHOCOLATE Chocolate has been eaten for about 2,500 years in Central America and made its way to Europe in the 16th century where it was reserved for the nobility. Having the reputation to recuperate chocolate was only sold in pharmacies until the late 19th century. Nowadays, chocolate is one of the most popular sweets around the world. The poet Goethe already did not travel without having any chocolate with him or so did Casanova who got inspired whilst enjoying chocolate.

BEER Beer is one of the oldest beverages and its beginnings can be found across cultures. In the Middle Ages especially monasteries enhanced the art of brewing. It was also this time when in 1516 the German purity law came into existence requiring that 'nothing other than barley, hops and water be used' to produce beer. The importance of yeast was not known at the time and was added later. Today there are about 12,000 different beers worldwide, Germany has over 5,000 different beers and 1,300 breweries over half of it – 600 – are in Bavaria. Here beer is running even underground - a beer-pipeline speeding up to 25 cm/sec is supplying the Hacker-beer hall with beer at the annual Oktoberfest.

CATHOLIC PILGRIMAGE

ROME Come to the epicentre of Christianity. Rome Christians arrived in the 1st century AD, and Rome has been the centre of Catholic Christianity ever since. The Vatican and its impressive buildings show the power of the popes. Rome's abundance of ancient temples, churches and shrines make it one of the best cities to explore the holy places of a variety of religious traditions.

MEDJUGORJE Get inspired at a place of wonders. In 1981 six local 'visionaries' began seeing apparitions of the Virgin Mary. The apparitions delivered messages to each villagers over the years that followed. Many persons feel the special spirit of this spot and though the Catholic Church has been divided over the authenticity of these visions. Over 30 million pilgrims have visited the site in search of miracles, visions and spiritual healing.

IRELAND Walk on the traces of Saint Patrick and Saint Kevin. Together with spectacular scenery, and a long Catholic tradition Ireland is perfect for a pilgrimage. The holy mountain of Croagh Patrick, and St. Kevin's bed and tower in Glendalough bring you back to the strong faith, which was the basis of the medieval proselytization. Furthermore the Book of Kells; an illuminated manuscript containing the four Gospels transcribed by Celtic monks; show you an impressive work of Irish cloisters.

LOURDES Feel the special meaning of our Lady at one of the most important locations of adoration of the Virgin Mary. Lourdes is the most important pilgrimage spot in southern France. Here Catholics memorize the apparition of the Virgin Mary to shepherd girl Bernadette Soubirous. Millions of pilgrims come to Lourdes every year to bath in and drink from the spring believed to have curative powers. Visitors can also attend mass, which is observed every day, and visit the home of Bernadette, who was canonized in 1933.

ARTISANY

PORCELAIN Learn more about history and processing of porcelain. Since the early 13th century, Europe's ruling houses had been importing porcelain at very high prices from China. Research aimed at cracking the secret of how porcelain was made, commenced at Meißen early in the 18th century. After years of experimentation together with his companion Tschirnhaus, Johann Friedrich Boettger announced the invention of the European porcelain in 1709. The first manufactory was established only one year later in Meißen. Many more followed in various places in Europe within the next 10 years.

GLASS The raw material glass looks back on 9000 years of history and is essential in everyday life nowadays. On the contrary to bronze and iron, glass is not eponymous to one of the epochs but nevertheless made its way into the industrial production. Central Europe - the heart of major glass manufactories - was market dominating and delivering across the continent in the 19th century.

WOOD Wood has long been used as an artistic medium in various cultures. It has been used to make sculptures and carvings for millennia. Whereas beginnings of wood carving form toys and homeware, it is followed by religious craftwork and includes nowadays also decorative art. Also certain types of musical instruments, such as those of the violin family, the guitar, the clarinet and recorder and the xylophone are made mostly or entirely of wood.

CARS

PORSCHE The automobile manufacturer's history is dating back to 1875. Ferdinand Porsche whose engineering experience included Daimler-Benz, established an engineering firm in 1931. He brought a half-century of experience with innovation, from a turn-of-the-century four-wheel drive gasoline/electric hybrid vehicle to the virtually unbeatable Auto Union Grand Prix cars of the 1930s. The Porsche name has become synonymous with sports cars and race cars because that is what company founders Ferdinand Porsche and his son set out to in 1948.

FERRARI Enzo Ferrari founded Scuderia Ferrari in 1929 primarily to build racing cars. The entire business was focused on motorsports before until it built its first road car in 1947.

Enzo Ferrari was not interested in the idea of producing road cars when he formed Scuderia Ferrari. Throughout its history, the company has been noted for its continued participation in racing, especially in Formula One, where it is the most successful racing team, holding the most constructors championships and having produced the highest number of winning drivers.

MERCEDES Mercedes-Benz traces its origins to Karl Benz's creation of the first petrol-powered car, the Benz Patent Motorwagen, financed by Bertha Benz and patented in 1886, and Gottlieb Daimler and engineer Wilhelm Maybach's conversion of a stagecoach by the addition of a petrol engine later that year. The Mercedes automobile was first marketed in 1901 by Daimler-Motoren-Gesellschaft. The first Mercedes-Benz brand name vehicles were produced in 1926, following the merger of Karl Benz's and Gottlieb Daimler's companies into the Daimler-Benz company.

WHAT CAN WE DO FOR YOU:

BMW The BMW AG originated with three other manufacturing companies and became Bayerische Motorenwerke in 1916. Starting as an engine manufacturer, BMW became an automobile manufacturer in 1929 when it purchased Fahrzeugfabrik Eisenach in Thuringia. During the war, against the wishes of its director, BMW concentrated on aircraft engine production and automobile manufacture stopped altogether. After the war, BMW survived by making pots, pans, and bicycles until 1948, when it restarted motorcycle production. In 1952, BMW began building cars in Bavaria but success was not to come before the late 1960s.

LITERATURE

JOHANN WOLFGANG VON GOETHE

The German poet, dramatist, novelist, and scientist Johann Wolfgang von Goethe (1749-1832), who embraced many fields of human endeavor, ranks as the greatest of all German poets. The many-sided activities of Goethe stand as a tribute to the greatness of his mind and his personality and not only, however, does Goethe rank with Homer, Dante Alighieri, and William Shakespeare as a supreme creator, but also in his life itself.

VICTOR HUGO

Victor Hugo (1802-1885), a French humanitarian who used literature to call attention to the injustices of society, is most well-known today for the novels Les Misérables and The Hunchback of Notre Dame. Though he traveled extensively, he always returned to Paris, writing many of his greatest works there. He passed away at the age of 83, nationally mourned as a literary giant and as a man who had helped to shape democracy in France.

WHAT CAN WE DO FOR YOU:

Follow Goethe's Italian Journey passing Munich, the Brennero Pass and Lake Garda to Verona, Venice and Rome | Take a tour of Victor Hugo's Paris and travel in the French writer's footsteps | Visit the Château de Monte-Cristo where Dumas' history, personality and literary inspiration are visible everywhere you turn | Explore J.K. Rowling's Great Britain and see film locations and places that inspired her for her fantasy novels

ALEXANDRE DUMAS

Alexandre Dumas (1802 – 1870), was a French writer. His works have been translated into nearly 100 languages, and he is one of the most widely read French authors. Many of his historical novels of high adventure were originally published as serials, including The Count of Monte Cristo, The Three Musketeers, Twenty Years After, and The Vicomte de Bragelonne: Ten Years Later. His novels have been adapted since the early twentieth century for nearly 200 films.

J.K. ROWLING

J.K. Rowling, a British novelist and best known as the author of the Harry Potter fantasy series. Her books have gained worldwide attention, won multiple awards and sold more than 400 million copies. Becoming the best-selling book series in history and her books have been the basis for a series of movies which is the second highest-grossing film series in history until now.

WORLD WAR II

NORMANDY AND D-DAY

Visit Normandy, site of the D-Day invasion. See the long beaches where the liberation of Europe started. In the whole region war memorials, museums and cemeteries remind on this big sacrifice. The most popular sites are the church and Airborne Museum at Sainte Mère Eglise. Get over the Pegasus Bridge and see the impressive and agitating military cemeteries. A visit in the Caen-Normandy Memorial Centre, the major museum, gives you the best overview of the D-Day events and general war history.

THE RISE AND FALL OF THE THIRD REICH

Trace the political, economic and ideological reasons behind Hitler's rise to power, visiting places where he rallied followers, held diplomatic meetings, commanded armies and finally met his demise. See his impressive Eagle's Nest and the depressing documentation centres in Nuremberg and Munich, where you can learn more about Nazi Party's history. In Berlin you can see the memorials for the victims of the Holocaust as well as the graffiti left by Red Army soldiers in 1945 who finally destroyed the rest of this inhuman dictatorship.

BATTLEFIELDS AND MEMORIALS

Visit battlefields and memorials of World War II in France, Belgium and Germany. Battlefields from any conflict is both a fascinating and touching experience. Remember, the soldiers who fought those wars left behind a legacy; their name on a war memorial, an experience passed down to the family or a faded photograph in a frame. Come and decipher the legacy, and understand a past that touched us all.

CHRISTMAS MARKETS

NUREMBERG Nuremberg's Christmas Market is one of Germany's oldest Christmas fairs and dates back to the mid-16th century. Towards the end of the 19th century, the Christmas Market became less important and was only revived in the 1930s as a much romanticised event. An actress dressed up as a Christmas angel, accompanied by two golden Christmas tree fairies, recites a prologue, a children's choir sings and church bells ring.

SALZBURG The Salzburg Christmas Market has its beginnings in the 'Tandlmarkt' in the late 15th century. It soon became a real Christmas Market and was renamed as 'Nikolaimarkt'. Merchants traded goods such as dolls, sweets and rummage 14 days before and 14 days after Nikolai. After 40 years of absence the Salzburg Christmas Market opened again in the 1970s and does so ever since during the Advent period.

DRESDEN Celebrating its 580th anniversary in 2014, the 'Striezelmarkt' in Dresden

WHAT CAN WE DO FOR YOU:

Visit Nuremberg during Christmas time and stroll through its famous market during your Christmas Market tour | Explore the diversity of the Christmas time at the Salzburg Christmas Museum | Experience Vienna in Winter and enjoy the great atmosphere on the Viennese Christmas markets is one of Germany's oldest documented Christmas markets. Founded as a one-day market to provide the citizens of Dresden with meat for the Christmas meal after the pre-Christmas period of fasting. Over the centuries the 'Striezelmarkt' has developed into a huge event with 250 stands and today's most famous features are the world's largest usable Christmas arch with a breadth of 13,5 metres and a height of more than 5 metres and the 14-metres high Erzgebirge Christmas pyramid.

VIENNA The first Christmas markets were held in Vienna more than seven centuries ago. These markets have been shaped by the stallholders who worked there. Beside standard goods such as textiles and groceries, also delicious gingerbreads and pastries were sold. After centuries the market finally settled at its current location on Vienna Rathausplatz in 1975. With some of 145 stalls, each year more than three million visitors come to the market.

WINTER

SKIING There are lots of ski resorts in Europe. Much of the skiing is in the Alps which span the Mediterranean coast of France through Switzerland, Northern Italy, Austria and into Slovenia. Austria's Tirol province is the birthplace of modern skiing with more than 80 alpine ski resorts and five glacier ski areas welcoming guests each season. The mountains are giants so skiing offers endless runs and spectacular scenery from the slopes. The ability to ski from village to village is common and in some places you can even ski from country to country.

CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING Fully immerse yourself in winter landscapes by taking advantage of one of the best low-impact, total-body workouts around: cross-country skiing. The sport is as fun as it is challenging, and can take you on an impressive number of trails through splendid setting amongst the snowy peaks. There are an abundance of really good resorts throughout Europe that offer cross-country skiing.

WINTER HIKING With beautiful snow-covered valleys, icy peaks and wintry woods, the Alps are a brilliant place for winter hiking in Europe and ideal for those who want an active week in magnificent winter scenery, but are not tempted by snowshoeing. There are countless, specially prepared trails at all altitudes across the Alps leading through enchanting paths or even into some of the highest mountain regions.

FASHION

PARIS Famously known as the fashion capital of the world, Paris has long been a byword for style, beauty and sophistication. Visit the home to some of the world's most iconic designers, from Chanel and Dior to Yves Saint Laurent and explore some of Paris's key spots for fashion pilgrims. Stroll around in the small boutiques or visit the famous of Paris' grands magasins (department stores), the Galeries Lafayette or Printemps the stunning Art Nouveau fashion temples.

LONDON Come to one of the world's top fashion cities, British fashion has an international reputation for being eccentric, thought provoking and boldly innovative. British designers and fashion houses are renowned worldwide for their cutting edge styles. Come to London and see where fashion exploded onto the scene or savour the excitement that was the Swinging 60s and you will see the trend-setting shops of today's top designers. There is really nothing that you cannot buy in London. Big name stores line Oxford and Regent Street. Luxury items abound in upmarket Knightsbridge. For a distinctive London spree, head north to Camden Market and wander among stands of clothing.

MILAN Walk through the elegant neighbourhood known as Quadrilatero della Moda in Milan. This is home to the world's leading Italian fashion designers. If you are visiting Milan and love fashion, this is where you need to be. In Via Montenapoleone you find Cartier, Luis Vuitton and Bulgari. Along Via della Spiga, less crowded and more quiet, stop and glance at the exclusive shop windows. All the big names are here - Armani, Valentino, Prada, Dolce & Gabbana and Versace but look also for less familiar names and see designs you won't find anywhere but here. But do not miss the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele II, located between the Duomo and La Scala, is the beating heart of Milan's fashion culture.

DUESSELDORF Duesseldorf is, after all, the fashion capital of Germany. More than 800 showrooms present the latest designer and couture creations. Koenigsallee is lined with exclusive boutiques of German designers like Hugo Boss, Strellson, Jil Sander where it is all too easy to succumb to temptation in the name of fashion. The other young, alternative fashion scene you can find in other parts of the city such as Flingern-Nord and Unterbilk.
